About the Hebrew Program

You are in the process of acquiring Hebrew and by now you're aware that the term "Hebrew" has many meanings. Please be reminded that in our context, Hebrew is the official language of the State of Israel. Also, it is a window to understand the Israeli people and their culture(s). At the same time, Israeli Hebrew is just another stage in the evolution of the Hebrew language since ancient times and it contains linguistic and cultural elements from the past. Thus, the study of Hebrew is both, acquisition of a contemporary communicative skills and a window into the past.

This course is the second of a three-part language sequence in which you're introduced to linguistic and cultural elements which are essential for entering "Hebrew reality" (present and past). After the three semesters of Hebrew language acquisition, we offer one semester of text course, in which all Hebrew linguistic elements acquired so far are used to find meaning in Biblical narrative.

Goals and Objectives:

Our classes are "Learner-Centered" and encourage interactive participation. The end goal of the Hebrew language program is to help individuals enter "Hebrew reality" with as many skills as possible. At the end of three semesters, the students will:

- be able to function (at the intermediate* level of the ACTFL) in a contemporary Hebrew environment;
- have the basic skills needed to start reading Hebrew texts from other periods (e.g., Biblical narratives) comprehensibly and critically.
- appreciate the power of language as a key to understanding people and their cultures.

By the end of the fourth semester students will be able to 'cope' with classical Hebrew and read Biblical prose with comprehension.

see Appendix I on page 9 for a description of the ACTFL standards.*

Enrichment:

People acquire languages in many different ways. To accommodate as many learning styles as possible, the instructor will provide enrichment activities. They will range from traditional handouts and exercises to exploring new and emerging technologies (e.g., websites). Students will need to check their e-mail and the course's website for further information (website information will be given out during the course).

ACTFL Hebrew Proficiency Guidelines - Intermediate Level

Based on the Generic Guidelines of ACTFL (American Council on the Teaching of Foreign Languages)

The Hebrew Proficiency Guidelines are divided into the following four areas:

1. Listening:

The Intermediate level is characterized by an ability to understand main ideas and some facts from interactive exchanges and simple connected aural texts.

The Intermediate level is characterized by the listener's ability to:

- understand complete sentences;
- understand compound sentences in familiar contexts which allow for a high probability of correct guessing from a minimum of word clues.

Comprehension is degraded when the listener is pressured by the need to provide a spoken response, or by listening to speech which cannot be repeated or altered (e.g. radio, telephone answering machine)

2. Speaking:*

The intermediate-level speakers are characterized by the ability to:

- participate in simple direct conversation on generally predictable topics related to daily activities and personal environment
- create with the language and communicate personal meaning to sympathetic interlocutors by combining language elements in discrete sentences and strings of sentences
- obtain and give information by asking and answering questions
- sustain and bring to a close a number of basic, uncomplicated communicative exchanges, often in a reactive mode
- satisfy simple personal needs and social demands to survive in the target language culture

*ACTFL Proficiency Guidelines for Speaking were revised in 1999 and it is a 'Top-Down' model, unlike the previous guidelines for speaking (see Foreign Language Annals Vo. 33, No 1 pp. 13 - 18)

3. Writing:

The Intermediate level is characterized by an ability to meet practical writing needs and by communicating simple facts and ideas in a loose collection of sentences.

4. Reading:

The intermediate level is characterized by an ability to understand main ideas and some facts from simple connected texts.
