

Virtue Ethics vs Kantian Ethics

PARTICIPANTS

April 1-3, 2005

Marcia Baron

Indiana University Bloomington
"Virtue Ethics and Kantian Ethics:
Are they Really Incompatible?"

Paul Guyer

University of Pennsylvania
"Kantian Perfectionism"

Thomas Hill, Jr.

University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill
"Kant on Virtue as Strength of Moral Will"

Rosalind Hursthouse

The University of Auckland, New Zealand
"Moral Knowledge in Aristotelian Virtue Ethics"

Richard Kraut

Northwestern University
"Flourishing and Moral Rightness"

Anselm Mueller

Universität Trier, Germany
"Practical Teleology: What Aristotle
Should Have Said"

Nancy Sherman

Georgetown University
"Aristotle, the Stoics, and Kant
on Emotions"

Michael Slote

University of Miami
"The Difficulty We All Have
with Deontology"

Hebrew Union College-University of Cincinnati Center for the Study of Ethics and Contemporary Moral Problems

Hebrew Union College-University of Cincinnati Center for the Study of Ethics and Contemporary Moral Problems (HUC-UC Ethics Center) was founded in 1986 jointly by Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion (HUC-JIR) and the University of Cincinnati (UC) as a national resource center for the exploration of critical ethical and moral issues, focusing on their dimensions in law, medicine, religion, and other professional as well as non-professional areas.

HUC-UC Ethics Center has launched a joint graduate studies program in Comparative Law and Ethics at HUC-JIR, Cincinnati, and UC. It also offers Continuing Education Unit (CEU) programs in ethics to educators, social workers, attorneys, nurses, physicians, realtors, and other professionals. The Ethics Center has organized collaborative public programs with a variety of not-for-profit organizations in the Greater Cincinnati area. It is located at 3101 Clifton Avenue, Cincinnati, Ohio. For information, call 513-221-1875, ext. 3367 or go to www.huc.edu/ethics.

For conference information:
<http://asweb.artsci.uc.edu/philosophy/>